Nathan Baez

Nathan (he/him) is a multi-dimensional poet and an innovative educator whose work revolves around liberation practices and dismantling psychological systems of oppression. His music and art are vessels for exploring ideas that seek to shift social and economic paradigms. To Nathan, every conversation is an experiment, an experience, and an invitation to learn more about yourselves and how to interact with the material conditions of the world. He is currently working on his first novel, which is a fictional story touching on the impending realities of technological advances and our withdrawal from nature.
