

Olivia Moon

While pole dance has become most of her identity, Olivia Moon is also a photographer, sock-lover, boy, martini enthusiast, princess, and simp. Based in Boston, Olivia is curious about pushing boundaries and buttons of all sorts; WBUR named her as one of 15 artists of color making an impact in Boston.

A recipient of the Next Steps for Boston Dance award, Olivia experiments with fusing the grace and fluidity of contemporary dance with the sensuality and athleticism of pole dance. Their home is within the dynamism of performance and visual artistry; the possibility for range and contradiction of character and gender excite her. You can find Olivia snapping pix at @halfasianlens, and grooving at @mooningeveryone on Instagram.